And Jesus said unto them, 'I will be to you as Jesus, and he that is clean, let him be clean.' And immediately his face was cleansed. He stated that if either of his requests were denied he would take court action. The matter was referred to the planning commission for action.

Fuel Oils Said Efficient Home Heating Element

Prospective home-builders will have adequate and economical heat in their new homes although gas heating has been barred from new homes by the gas conservation order recently issued by the War Production Board, according to Harry Frank, president of the Building Contractors Association of California.

"Studies of the California heating problem initiated immediately on publication of the gas conservation order have proved to us that satisfactory heating can be provided by using fuels other than gas," the builders' executive stated.

"Oil-fired heating, for example, has been used with success and economy in many areas outside metropolitan centers in California, and in Arizona and Nevada. Even in cities, owners of numerous large residences have chosen oil heating for efficiency and economy.

"The purpose of the studies now being completed is to put into the hands of contractors and prospective home-seekers full information on all types of appliances using fuels other than gas, their performance, heating capacity, cost of installing and operation cost. Prospective home-builders usually look to their contractors for advice on home equipment, and we intend to see that contractors shall be able to inform their clients fully on heating problems.

"Our heating surveys are now virtually complete," Frank said, "and comprehensive information is available."
